LONDON, March 10 /PRNewswire/ -- Jules Kroll has announced the opening of a new risk management venture, K2 Global Consulting ("K2"). The company will be a provider of risk consulting and advisory services to multi-national corporations, sovereign nations and individuals. In making the announcement, Mr. Kroll, the founder and visionary behind Kroll Inc., said, "In the 21st Century, the world will continue to face risks that will require new and imaginative solutions. We expect that K2 will play a leading role in meeting the challenges and addressing those risks."

K2 has a global reach with offices in New York, London, Washington, Madrid and Bahrain. The K2 London office serves clients throughout Europe, the Middle East and Africa, with a core consulting team of experienced professionals, as well as an international network of experts and relationships.

Jules Kroll was joined by Charles Carr, head of K2's London office, for the launch of the K2 London office. Mr. Carr explained, "K2 is an exciting new venture aimed at combining decades of experience in handling the most complex and sensitive risk matters from around the world with renewed energy and creativity. We are very much looking forward to providing our services to the EMEA market."

K2 Global Consulting, a wholly owned subsidiary of K2 Global Partners, LLC, will be offering services to clients in four main areas: Fraud and Corruption Strategies and Solutions, Transactional Risk Advisory, Dispute Resolution and Security Strategies.

In addition to the consulting business, Jules Kroll and his strategic partners heading K2 Global Partners, will be investing in new businesses in the risk management arena, including launching a new credit rating agency focused on structured financial products in the 3Q 2010.
